

My favourite part of the book was the introduction to the book, when the whale was on the roof of the Chapel of St Bartholomew, because it made me curious about what the story was going to be about. It wasn't like anything I'd read before so it hooked me into the story right from the start.

I think that the author did well describing the characters and the setting. I felt like I knew the characters like Ellie, Seth, Anna and the Enemy (Finn), and I could imagine where the story was happening and what it was like to live in the City.

I absolutely loved the book because it was filled with action and there was always something going on so it kept me turning the pages. I loved the twists and turns in the story and working out who the Enemy was. I also loved how the story ended. What might happen next? I hope the author writes a sequel, I'd love to read more.

I think that this book would be great for anyone who enjoys reading about mysteries and fantasies. Readers who enjoy stories that aren't about real life, would love this book. It would also appeal to both boys and girls and I actually think adults would love the story too.

The age group I would recommend this book for is Intermediate age and above. The story is dark at times, scary and gruesome, and it might frighten younger children. The high level of language would be suited for confident and capable readers as well.
