

SPOILERS HAVE BEEN REDACTED

'The City' is one of the last remaining cities in the world, but it is getting swallowed slowly by the sea. The sea that has already claimed so many lives and cities. Can they do anything to stop it claiming their city? Meanwhile who was this mysterious boy who gets washed up in the tide? Where has he really come from, is he the enemy or the vessel?

This book takes the reader on a journey with the main characters being faced with lots of life changing decisions. They need to be strong and make the most of the opportunities presented to them. It has lots of interesting twists and turns that leave everybody's secrets exposed. They need to trust each other as the adventure takes them to the brink of life and death.

I thought the book was hard to put down and I liked it. I really enjoyed working out the mystery of who was the vessel and also who was the enemy. I felt like I wanted to keep reading to find out how all of the adventure was going to end but particularly how they were going to weaken the enemy and come out of it alive. My best part was when [REDACTED] and the consequences of this.

Struan Murray has written a possibility for readers to escape in this evolving adventure.

I think this adventure will be enjoyed by 10 yrs +.

Kurt, age 12, Nelson